A "DISTURBING EFFECT."

The following is from the Weekly Financial Review, which is issued from the banking house of Henry Clews & Co. of New York:

"The unrest of the labor market is having a disturbing effect upon public confidence. It would seem that the unions have, by a concerted understanding, resolved to make the great trust movement the occasion for strengthening their position and subjecting capital to demands which appear to the public as somewhat unreasonable. The liberal attitude lately shown toward the operative classes, as a means of conciliating favor towards the great consolidations, has had the effect of emboldening some of the labor leaders, and the question has come to be whether the capitalistic combinations shall be subjected to a vast consolidated labor monopoly. The strike against the Steel Corporation is the boldest challenge with which labor has ever confronted capital and it would seem that the last thing that the Trust can afford is to show any timidity or evince any disposition towards concession to the present arbitrary demand, beyond the fair and liberal spirit already shown. Any spirit of conciliation shown by capital under present conditions can, from the very nature of things, have no effect than to stimulate aggression from labor, and the recent large voluntary advances in wages have undoubtedly had that result. Compromise between the two sides is impossible; either the one party or the other must hold a distinct ascendancy of power; and it would seem that we are verging upon the crisis which will determine where the victory shall rest. Whilst this conflict exists, the balance there can be no rampant bull stock market."

Yes, "the question has come," but no whether the capitalist combination shall be "subjected" to "a vast consolidated labor monopoly," but whether the toilers for the trusts shall or shall not receive such remuneration for their labor as will afford them comfortable subsistence for themselves and their families while the employees are swelling their millions with their aid and the aid of a law which was enacted with the hollow promise that they should receive a moiety of benefit from its provisions. The end is not difficult to premise: Capital will win. The toilers will have to sit dumb, while their masters will emerge from the contest with fuller coffers than before the movement was inaugurated, for "while there can be no rampant bull market," in the role of bears they will gobble up from the small holders the depreciated stock, which under the benign influences of a "peaceful adjustment" will expand and beautify like the morning glory when kissed by the magic rays of the rising sun.

EVANS MAY BE REMOVED.

And now the people are told, under the authority of an administration office "close to the President," that the opinion of Commissioner Evans at the head of the pension bureau depends entirely upon the condition of affairs in Ohio in relation to the pending political campaign. But a short time ago it was confidently asserted that the continuance of the pension shares upon the Commissioner, led by General Dan Sikel, with such malignant pertinacity would prove unavailing, and that the President would stand by the Commissioner, whose only fault was in his faithful adherence to the law and the interests of the country as assailed by the "raiders," but now there is another phase of the situation presented.

There has been a hot campaign commenced in the President's own State, with much certainty of Republican success. Mr. McKinley would like to be assured of "Hence," as a Washington correspondent puts it, "the leaders of the G. A. R. in Ohio meet and pass resolutions calling for Commissioner Evans' removal, then there will be some action taken." That is to say, Evans will have to go if the exigencies of the political situation demand it.

A resident of McKinley knows that Evans has pursued the honorable and proper course; that he has kept his oath of office, observed the law and served the people rather than the pension sharks, but, if the report is true, he will remove him all the same if it appears to be necessary to save Ohio to the Republican party, but will probably save the matter over by giving him an equally lucrative position. A short time with demonstrate the truth or falsity of the report. If Evans is removed it can be no other cause than the one above mentioned. Nothing can be more certain than that. If he is retained, it will prove the unreliability of the correspondent's report, or that the President does not regard the Republican situation in Ohio so dangerous as to necessitate resort to such a drastic measure.

AN ADMIRABLE REPORT.

Many people harbor the erroneous impression unfavorable to forestry, be cause they imagine that it interferes with a man's individual rights, or that it means that trees shall not be cut. If they will take the pains to read the well written pages of a late report of the Forestry Bureau upon the conditions of that branch of economic science in the State of New York, an investigation of which was made at the request of the authorities of that State, they will become convinced that forestry is business and a good business which it would be reckless folly to ignore. Anyone can secure a copy of the report by sending a postal card request to the Secretary of Agriculture at Washington.

Attention is called to this report, because it deals to some extent with the same kind of conditions which prevail in Nevada and because it is evidently her policy, even at this late day to protect what is left of her timber land on the main watersheds of her mountains, to say nothing of the necessity of providing by cultivation for a future supply of timber land product. It is evident from reading the report that the Bureau is composed of practical men, working along business lines, and not a lot of enthusiastic sentimentalist knowing nothing of the business requirements and limitations of American forestry. Anyone who understands the lumber business in any of its branches will be able to comprehend every word of the report and much of the advice therein contained is applicable to the timber lands and conditions in Nevada.

The Carson Appeal decides that the Washoe County Commissioners are in contempt of court in passing a resolution relative to the amount which the Central Pacific track should be assessed at, while the U. S. Court at Carson is hearing a case upon that point. The Appeal cites as a parallel the arrest and jailing of the editor of the Carson News during the Mint robbery trial. There is no similarity between the two cases. The Mint robbers were being tried by a jury while the tax case is exclusively a court proceeding, and we hardly think that Judge Hawley would feel complimented by an intimation that the proceedings of the Washoe Commissioners were "equivalent to instructions to the Court how to decide the case." If our County Daddies were in contempt of anything it is the State Board of Assessment. At least it strikes us that way.

It is now authoritatively stated that Senator Stewart will not visit Nevada this summer. Why should he? His Nevada business ended when he received from the legislature a six years' power of attorney to sell the State's interests to the trusts and monopolies with whose money he purchased enough legislators to pledge against him to secure his election. No Nevada wants ever to set eyes upon him again. The Republicans, to their credit, spurned the hoary bearded traitor last fall and gave him distinctly to understand that he was an unwelcome intruder in their camp. Let the unhappy old man fawn upon his trust masters a few years longer when he will subside into the obscurity which will not be endured by a snail of recognition from those he serves and who while they use, most cordially despise and condemn him.

Mr. Bryan gives conciliatory advice to his over zealous friends who looted the big Democratic ticket in Ohio. By his course he effectively spikes the gun of his enemies in the party and manifest his sincerity of purpose for the advancement of the general cause. While Mr. Bryan felt considerably sore at the omission to endorse the national platform upon which he ran, he cannot ignore the fact that the convention nominated for the highest office one of the staunchest and warmest of his political friends and supporters in the State.

Mr. Hanna told the Ohio Republican convention that this is no time to experiment with the tariff. Certainly not. Not the time for the Republican party to experiment with it. The trusts are satisfied and Mr. Hanna knows right where he can strike a big bonanza of fat when he starts out with his frying pan in the congressional campaign of next year and the presidential campaign of 1904.

Murderers Coleman and James Younger have been paroled, and will be employed as stevedores for a prison term of five years. If they are as industrious, enterprising and hard working as they formerly were filling them they will make a big fortune for their employer.

The Sacramento Bee heads an article, "Sacramento finds no fault with the sun." Neither does Reno, although we notice that Benches, as a rule, haven't for the last week or two so much of the sun's society when they could conveniently avoid it.

General Alger's prospective book relating why he retired may be of some use to other incompetents who persist in holding on.

Some Horace Greeley Lost His Hat. A very distinguished assemblage honored Grant's hall, which was held at the newly completed north wing of the treasury building. Elaborate preparations were made for dancing, the manager by telegraphic communication, keeping the dance moving simultaneously on three floors. But the man who preferred cutting to dancing and could not get even within the sight of a reel was not well pleased. Refreshments were served in the basement, in a room too small to accommodate the 6,000 guests, but large enough to contain the provisions, which were scarce indeed, in the delectable committee in charge lost their heads, visitors lost their hats, and it is stated on good authority that the sulphurous vapors which rose in the vicinity of the place where Greeley searched for his hat during two hours were stifling.

It is recorded that one gentleman walked to Capitol hill, two miles distant, in dancing pumps and bareheaded, and that many frightened women still cowered in the corners of the dressing rooms at dawn the next morning. So, in preparing Grant's second bill, the committee made elaborate arrangements in order that these no doubt illustrious members not again be so humiliated.

The Great Deserts.

There was once a gentleman who went a day in Verona, and it rained all that day. Five years afterward the gentleman spent another day in that city, and it rained all that day.

And the gentleman afterward wrote a book and on the ground of his experience asserted that it always rained in Verona. As with Verona so it has been with the deserts of the globe. The great Australian desert shrinks every year it is better known. On the presumed desert land of a lifetime ago the finest sheep in the world are now raised. The desert was mapped on hazy generalizations on insufficient samples.

So it was with the American deserts. So it is with the Asiatic deserts. So it is with the African deserts. Fifty years ago the map of the Sahara showed an unbroken stretch of sand. The map of today shows a tract of country with patches of sand, but diversified with hills and water courses, and even in places consisting of light, airy park land, with widespread grassy tracts interspersed with forest.—Exchange.

To Overcome Nausea.

A well known physician advances the theory that the distressing sensation of nausea has its seat in the brain and not in the stomach and that relief may be obtained by cooling the base of the brain. He claims to have tested this often and thoroughly in the case of sick headache, bilious colic, cholera morbus and other ills in which nausea is a distressing symptom without a single failure; also that he once relieved the nausea resulting from cancer of the stomach by the application of ice to the back of the neck and occipital bone. The ice is to be broken and the bits placed between the folds of a towel. Relief may be obtained by holding the head over a sink or tub and pouring a small stream of water on the neck. This is worth remembering as a relief for sick headache, to which so many are subject.—Rocky-mountain Advertiser.

WHITE MAN TURNED YELLOW.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was Yellow Jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful Stomach and Liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Only 50 cents. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.

THEY TWO.

They are left alone in the dear old home, After so many years.
When the house was full of frolic and fun, Of children's laughter and tears.
They are left alone, they two—once more Beginning life over again,
Just as they did in the days of yore, Before they were nine or ten.

And the table is set for two these days!
The children went one by one
Away from home on their separate ways
When the childhood days were done.
How healthily hungry they used to be!
What romping they used to do!
And mother—for weeping—can hardly see
To set the table for two.

They used to gather around the fire
While some one would read aloud,
But whether at study or work or play
"Twas a loving and merry crowd,
And now they are two that gather there
At evening to read or sew,
And it seems almost too much to bear
When they think of the long ago.

Ah, well—ah, well, 'tis the way of the world!
Children stay but a little while
And then into other scenes are whirled,
And now they are two that gather there
At evening to read or sew,
And it seems almost too much to bear
When they think of the long ago.

Where the table is set for two,
—Mrs. Frank A. Brock in Youth's Companion.
